

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

William French, writing in the Globe and Mail, says: "An experiment in progressive education—some people would call it common sense—paid off in the Toronto school system last June and will become a regular feature of local pedagogy."

The story explains that authorities took Grade 8 students from their own classroom near the end of the term last year and introduced them to high school. The experiment solved the major "problem of getting pupils from the children's atmosphere of public school into the adolescent atmosphere of high school with a maximum of smoothness."

Maybe I'm growing progressively numb, but the suggestion doesn't set me dancing with joy, cheering, or bowing in recognition of a superior intellect in Toronto. I feel more like saying what Tom Merriman said the piper said when the Burns' dinner haggis was late leaving the kitchen.

So now we're taking the little dears by the hand to high school to avoid any emotional disturbance arising from changed environments.

Gag me. Mother, or tie my hands. What I'm thinking wouldn't look good in print.

Don't get me wrong. I've been a new boy at a strange school in that transition stage between elementary and secondary education. It isn't pleasant. It can be pretty mournful.

Tough But Necessary

Loneliness can be a lump that rises in a boy's throat and almost chokes him. It brings tears up close behind his eyes. He feels panicky, as if someone had swiped his water-wings while he's way out over his head.

But it seems to me to be one of the things a guy has to go through—one of the problems he has to face and to lick. And the sooner he does it the better.

Someday that kid is going to look for a job. He's going to walk in among comparative strangers and hit up the boss. He's going to be a new boy in a strange school again. If he has been through the routine before, it'll be easier for him the next time. Maybe he'll be given a tryout on a newspaper. If he is, there'll be a first assignment. No matter how cocky he may seem, inside he'll be scared. He'll be heading into a strange group, a conspicuous person taking notes, and he'll go through the agonies of trying to bat out his story back at the office—not too sure that he has the important facts down, not to certain that he's picked up the top news in the event, not too confident he can write the thing the way it should be written.

There'll be his first interview, which also comes hard, gives him that impression of strangeness and mental nakedness.

Life With Strangers

There'll be his first introduction to a beat, meeting people for the first time on their home ground which won't be his home ground until he's been on it for a while.

There'll be his entry into a court for the first time—his unfamiliarity with the conventions and procedures and the unique and not too friendly atmosphere of the place.

In fact, as he goes through life, he'll be continually finding himself in the position of the new boy at the new school. Repetition will adjust him to the role. Eventually he'll realize that these exposures aren't as terrifying as they seemed.

The earlier he passes through the experience, the sooner he'll learn how to cope with it. And high school age isn't too tender to start.

2 Key Treaties To French House

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet today decided to submit the European army treaty to the National Assembly immediately, along with the three-power western peace contract with Germany.

A government spokesman said the two treaties will be submitted to the parliament this evening, without waiting for settlement of the wording of several clarifying protocols which the cabinet has said must be included.

Atomic City Searched for Blast Victims

Five Bodies Found In Smoking Ruins

AIKEN, S.C. (AP)—Crash-helmeted disaster crews dug today through ruins of a section of the business district of this atomic boom town, searching for more bodies of victims killed in a tremendous gas explosion Tuesday.

Charred remains of five of the 11 persons believed killed in the blast had been removed early today.

More than 200 workmen, many of them from the du Pont Company crew working on the atomic energy commission's H-bomb plant near here, were hindered for a number of hours as engineers and laborers attempted to knock down a sagging wall which threatened their safety.

The blast was attributed to a leaking gas pipe at the Jones Electrical Co., an electrical appliance store.

Immediately after the concussion rocked this community of 25,000 gas-fed flames leaped from the wreckage, levelling two adjoining stores and damaging three more.

Damage was estimated at $2,000,000.

Rocky Mountain CNR 'Back to Normal'

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—Traffic over the Canadian National Railway's mainline through the Rocky Mountains returned to normal today after workmen cleared wreckage from 24 box cars derailed late Monday. A broken wheel on one of the freight cars apparently caused the derailment, a CNR spokesman said.

Dominion Government Policies Under Fire at Farmers' Parley

The federal government's trade and agricultural policies were strongly criticized by some British Columbia farmers at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture which opened here Tuesday.

One delegate from central British Columbia warned that "revolution" would follow if the government failed to maintain the economic status of Canadians.

The criticisms and complaints were all leveled at the short, fiery Agriculture Minister James Gardiner, who addressed the convention's opening session at the Empress Hotel Tuesday.

Mr. Gardiner was chiefly criticized for certain remarks he made in his address with regard to the income farmers were receiving for their produce.

In reviewing the nation's present farm status, the minister said, "Canada's farm income has grown by leaps and bounds since the Second World War, and is running at a rate four times above that of prewar level."

Several B.C. farmers charged that the minister was creating an "unfair" impression among the public that the farmer was making "big" money on his farm products.

"This is not so," said Henry G. Robinson, secretary of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association. "The cost of operating a farm in recent years has gone up by leaps and bounds and the net returns of farmers have not increased in proportion."

"The minister denied creating such an impression and pointed out that in his address he had made it quite clear that the income for some farm products were high and others low."

"There will be a revolution if we have another economic depression," warned a cattle rancher during a discussion on trade. "The people won't stand another depression like the thirties."

It was suggested by one British Columbian that Canada's surplus farm products be sent to Britain to repay them for their war effort.

The minister replied that Canada had no apologies to make to Britain or anyone for her war effort. "Our war effort in proportion to population was just as great as theirs," he said.

CCL-TCL Differ About Law Changes

Criminal Code Amendments Seen By CCL as Threat to Strike Right

Canada's two major labor organizations hold differing views on the proposed revision of the Criminal Code of Canada now before Parliament.

Headquarters of the 370,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor sees a grave threat to labor's right to strike in two sections of the proposed revision, and today called them "vicious" and "dangerous."

They should be struck out, the CCL officers said. A few weeks ago, the rival Trades and Labor Congress of Canada stated: "We are not unduly alarmed at the proposals in Bill H-8. If adopted, it will make the Criminal Code a much simpler document for the man on the street to understand."

However, at the first meeting of the B.C. Trade Union Congress in December, representing all TLC unions in the province, a resolution was adopted that ran counter to the opinion of its headquarters.

DELETIONS SOUGHT
"All sections covering the rights of workers to strike and picket should be deleted, and all sections affecting the democratic rights of citizens should be amended or deleted," it was stated in a resolution adopted by the provincial body.

The revision, the work of a royal commission, is the first major overhaul in the Criminal Code since 1892. The Senate made some changes in passing it last session.

Last Friday the Commons gave it second reading and decided to set up a 17-member committee to give it detailed study.

The CCL memorandum said that section 365, dealing with criminal breach of contract, embodied a legal concept "not found elsewhere in our law" that people could be prosecuted for breach of a civil contract under the Criminal Code.

PROSECUTIONS FEARED
"It is conceivable that under section 365, employees could be prosecuted as a result of a wild cat strike."

The CCL said that section 372 of the proposed Criminal Code, dealing with "mischief," lacked any definition of the circumstances involved or the kind of property to be protected.

"It provides employers and hostile public authorities with a weapon which could be used against labor with utter injustice and with utter ruthlessness," the memorandum said. "Most certainly it could be used to break any strike."

BELIEVE IN YOURSELF

your personality speed synchronized with the rate of God's movement. God is in you. If you are going at one rate and God at another, you are tearing yourself apart. "Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceeding small." The mills of most of us grind very rapidly, and so they grind poorly. When we become attuned to God's rhythm we develop a normal tempo within ourselves and energy flows freely.

The hectic habits of this age have many disastrous effects. A friend of mine commented upon an observation made by her aged father. He said that, in the early days, when a young man came courting in the evening, he sat with his intended in the parlor. Time in those days was measured by the deliberate, ponderous strokes of the grandfather clock, which has a very long pendulum. It seemed to say, "There is plenty of time. There is plenty of time. There is plenty of time." But modern clocks, having a shorter pendulum with a swifter stroke, seem to say, "Time to get busy! Time to get busy! Time to get busy! Time to get busy!"

Sounds of Earth Keep in Time

Every thing is speeded up, and for that reason many people are tired. The solution is to get into the time synchronization of Almighty God. One way to do this is by going out some warm day and lying down on the earth. Get your ear close down to the ground and listen. You will hear all manner of sounds. You will hear the sound of the wind in the trees and the murmur of insects, and you will discover presently that there is in all these sounds a well-regulated tempo. You cannot get that tempo by listening to traffic in the city streets, for it is lost in the confusion of sound. But you can get it in church, where you hear the word of God and the great hymns. Truth vibrates to God's tempo in a church. And you can even find it in a factory if you have a mind to.

A friend of mine, an industrialist in a large plant in Ohio, told me that the best workmen in his plant are those who get into harmony with the rhythm of the machine on which they are working. He declares that, if a worker will work in harmony with the rhythm of his machine, he will not be tired at the end of the day. When you love a machine and get to know it, you will be aware that it has a rhythm. It is one with the rhythm of the body, of the nerves, of the soul. It is in God's rhythm, and you can work with that machine and not get tired if you are in harmony with it. There is a rhythm of the stove, a rhythm of the typewriter, a rhythm of the office, a rhythm of an automobile, a rhythm of your job. So to avoid tiredness and to have energy, feel your way into the essential rhythm of Almighty God and all His works.

To accomplish this, relax physically. Then conceive of your mind as likewise relaxing. Follow the mentally by visualizing the soul as becoming quiescent, then pray as follows: "Dear God, You are the source of all energy. You are the source of the energy in the sun, in the atom, in all flesh, in the bloodstream, in the mind. I hereby draw energy from You as from an illimitable source." Then practice believing that you receive energy. Keep in tune with the Infinite.

PAVLUKOFF WITNESS TO COME FROM CHINA

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Chinese tailor who made a suit of clothes for murder suspect Walter Pavlukoff more than five years ago will return from a holiday in his native land to testify at Pavlukoff's trial.

Dang Yee Gee is returning voluntarily to appear as a Crown witness at the trial, where Pavlukoff will stand accused of the August, 1947, slaying of bank manager Sydney Petrie.

Pavlukoff was committed for trial at a preliminary hearing Monday. Captured in a Toronto suburb earlier this month, he had been sought across the country for five years. Evidence was introduced at the hearing that Dang had taken suit measurements for the accused man. A sheet from the measurement book and a sample piece of cloth were displayed by police.

ETERNAL TRIANGLE DRAMA

French-Chinese Woman Slain; Husband Held

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—An east-west international romance is ended with a pretty French-Chinese woman slain and her husband in custody.

Aimee Bono White, 33, a member of a wealthy family from Singapore and Hong Kong, was found dead in a tourist cabin early Tuesday. She had been shot five times.

District Attorney Paul Tackett said a complaint would be filed today charging her 56-year-old husband, Allen White, mining engineer, with murder. The district attorney said the husband told investigators the couple had been estranged because she was thinking of leaving him for another man. Tackett gave this account:

White visited his wife's tourist cabin here Monday evening in an unsuccessful effort at reconciliation. As he started to kiss her goodbye, he stated, Mrs. White spat in his face.

White then shot her with a small foreign-made revolver. The couple was wed six years ago in Vancouver just before her passport to the United States expired and she was to be returned to China.

Humans Can't Match Pace Of Space-Probing Machine

An electronic calculator at the University of Toronto will be used to work out some mathematical problems of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Saanichton. It was learned today by Dr. R. M. Petrie, director.

He said Dr. Jean MacDonald, astrophysicist at the observatory, left today for Toronto, where she will feed problems into the university's machine, dubbed "ferret" by its members. The computer can work out problems in 60 hours that would take a human being working with a desk adding machine three years to solve.

"The work is in the nature of an experiment," Dr. Petrie said. "But we are confident valuable results will be achieved."

He said the mathematical problems had to do with the make-up of space around stars.

Jubilant CIO Claims Victory Over AFL

TORONTO (BUP)—Jubilant CIO officials claimed today that an Ontario Labor Board decision had wiped out the AFL United Textile Workers in Ontario and left the way clear for one union of textile workers across the country.

The AFL lost the last big battle of the nine-month jurisdictional war Tuesday when the board dismissed its application for certification at the big Cosmo Imperial Mills at Hamilton.

A spokesman for the rival CIO Textile Workers of America said the decision eliminated the AFL as an effective union in Ontario and left it "only a question of time" until it was tossed out in other provinces.

The CIO already was laying plans to "move in" on the AFL stronghold at Dominion Textiles in Quebec, where the contract there expires next year.

The war over Ontario's 25,000 textile workers began last April when a CIO international convention ousted Sam Baron as Canadian director and defeated his bid for a vice-presidency. Baron and one of his lieutenants, Jack Robinson, Hamilton area CIO leader, both switched to the AFL and tried to take CIO members with them.

Nationalist Attack On China Suggested

Delegate to UN Urges Action to Support Build-Up of Chiang's Navy and Army

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Dr. Tingfu F. Tsiang, chief Chinese delegate to the United Nations, proposed today that Nationalist China "independently invade and liberate the Communist-held Chinese mainland."

Tsiang called for support to build up Chiang Kai-shek's naval and air power so his government could use its present land power for an invasion of the mainland. He specifically rejected any plan to use American naval and air power to support such an invasion.

"China's position in the Far East is comparable to the position of Germany in Europe," Tsiang said in a speech to the Young Republican Club in New York. "Concede Germany to Communism, you will have lost Europe. Accept the Communist regime in China as an accomplished fact, you concede inevitably the whole of the Far East, no matter how much you might try to do in Korea, Indo-China and Malaya. Without the recovery of mainland China, containment of Communism in Asia is impossible."

Tsiang said his government in Formosa is ready to use its army in Korea, if the U.N. asked it, although it is not convinced "Korea is the best place for the free Chinese to make a contribution to the cause of world freedom. He said individual Americans had advocated a naval

Dulles Sees Ike Forcing Korea Peace

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles assured the nation in his first foreign policy address that President Eisenhower will find ways "to make" the Communists sue for peace in Korea and Indo-China.

The new secretary did not spell out the strategy the administration is developing but he hinted it would be aimed at making war so unprofitable for the Reds they will be forced to give up their aggression.

"Today these wars go on because the enemy thinks he's getting an advantage by continuing the war," Dulles said. "I believe that General Eisenhower will find the ways to make the enemy change his mind in that respect so that they too will want peace."

The Balance of Power

SINCE ONLY 46 MEMBERS sit in the legislature at its forthcoming session, and since the government will have only 18 members after appointing a Speaker, the Liberal group of six will hold an absolute balance of power. At any time, by joining with the CCF, the Liberals could defeat the government. The responsibility of the Liberal party in the immediate future thus is heavy.

In a recent radio broadcast on behalf of his party Mr. Strathairn made it clear that the Liberals have no intention of acting irresponsibly. They intend to offer "constructive criticism of the government's policies but will also be ready at every opportunity to assist the government to carry on the functions of government in an orderly way until the people have another opportunity to express their views by their ballots."

That, we think everyone will agree, is the proper attitude for the Liberal party. The people undoubtedly wish the sessional business to be transacted without unnecessary interruption or confusion. However, there must be limits to the Liberal party's support of the government. Mr. Strathairn lays down those limits when he says: "I wish to make it very clear that we, as Liberals, will have no part of Social Credit principles as such."

The government, therefore, is prevented from inaugurating any Social Credit policies. Precisely what Social Credit policies may be, in provincial affairs, is not clear to anyone, because Social Credit, being mainly a method of manipulating the money system, is entirely within federal jurisdiction. But any attempt to bring it into the provincial field, by distorting the clear intent of the Canadian constitution—an attempt made on several occasions by the Alberta government—will be resisted by the Liberals. At that point they would be quite justified in defeating the government. They are not bound to violate their basic principles.

Apart from the ideological and doctrinaire aspects of Social Credit the government could and might seek to provoke a clear issue which would force the Liberals to vote against it. That could occur, for example, in the case of hospital insurance.

The government cannot expect the Liberals to vote for a policy which, in their judgment, would destroy the insurance scheme. The Liberal party stands for a universal insurance scheme. It cannot support a voluntary, restricted and unworkable scheme such as Mr. Martin, the responsible minister, has seemed to suggest.

Actually, the public does not know what kind of scheme the government contemplates. Its statements on this subject have been confusing and contradictory—a universal scheme which is not compulsory. The public does not know yet how the scheme is operating, how many people are dropping out of it because they are not compelled to pay the insurance premiums, or where the insurance accounts stand. The Liberals will be right to insist on knowing all these things and particularly how the government intends to operate the scheme from now on. Their support or opposition to the government, in that matter, will depend upon the government's actual policy, yet to be revealed.

It is to be expected that the CCF, quite legitimately, will seek from the beginning to embarrass the government and perhaps to bring about its defeat in the legislature for partisan reasons. The Liberal party, as Mr. Strathairn indicates, will have no part in any such strategy. It will help the government through the session if it acts with reasonable wisdom and forgets Social Credit (which many members of the government certainly would like to forget permanently.)

If the government survives the session and is able to carry through its policies there will be no real need for an early election, but once he has secured the approval of the legislature, Mr. Bennett is entitled to call an election at any time. Apparently he will call it in the spring, hoping no doubt to win it before he has to settle any controversial issue which might lose him votes. That is his privilege.

The public, however, will expect him to concentrate on its business and not to postpone or confuse its affairs for election purposes. So long as he acts sensibly the Liberal party is bound to facilitate his efforts.

Cold Cash for Health

GOVERNMENTS SPENT MORE for health and social welfare on the individual British Columbia citizen than on the resident of any other province in Canada during the 1950-51 fiscal year. This is disclosed in tables the Canadian Chamber of Commerce compiled from statistics prepared by the research division of the Department of National Health and Welfare.

The B.C. per capita expenditure was $113.25, made up of $67.09 from the federal treasury, $41.11 from the provincial coffers and $5.05 from municipal funds.

Both federal and provincial per capita payments in B.C. were far above any others. Saskatchewan, which showed a per capita expenditure of $95.48 and stood second in the list, received $51.97 of that total from Ottawa, $32.70 from the provincial government and $10.81 from municipalities. Only one other province, Alberta, required more from the municipal governments than did Saskatchewan, the figure being $10.84.

Because of population, British Columbia stood only third in the total expenditures on health and welfare with a figure of $128,764,000 that year. Ontario was first with $317, 543.00 and Quebec second with $262,137,000.

The comparative figures, including totals spent, per capita expenditures, and percentage payments by the federal, provincial and municipal governments, respectively, make particularly interesting reading for British Columbians. They show not only the degree to which this province has advanced beyond all others in financing the physical well-being of its citizens, but how those costs are divided.

Some significance may be found in the fact that in three provinces only do municipalities pay a lower share of the per capita costs than do those of British Columbia.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island municipalities contribute less on a percentage basis, and they, with Quebec, pay less per capita.

More details would be required before sound conclusions could be drawn from the tables of comparisons. Taking them as they are, however, the figures furnish grounds for second thoughts to those municipalities of British Columbia which argue that they are unfairly burdened by the costs of the health and welfare services given to their people.

Death of an Empress

A SENSE OF LOSS REMOTE from the monetary value of the vessel has been felt by thousands in this country over the destruction by fire of the Empress of Canada.

To many it is the very real emotion stemming from some association with the ship as passengers. To others it is mixed with the uncertainties of passage to and from Britain in the Coronation year. To all it is the inevitable sadness that accompanies the death of a gallant liner that served well in peacetime and carried out a war job with distinction and efficiency.

This is one of a series of tragedies which has struck the CPR. On this coast late last year the Ss. Princess Kathleen went to her grave in the cold waters of the northern cruise run. Some years before, the once great white Empress of Canada well known to Victoria fell in the line of duty as a troopship.

With each disaster there has been some personalized regret marking the vessels as something more than structures of metal mechanically driven through the waters. There have been memories of voyages, recollected visions of them steaming into port, the close affinities of the Anglo-Saxon peoples to the seafaring tradition.

Many recall the latest of the ships called Empress of Canada. Some remember her as the "Duchess of Richmond," one of the "drunken duchesses," so named because of their rolling pitch in heavy weather.

They think of her, a blackened hulk in the muddy waters of the Mersey docks. And beyond their appreciation of the financial loss entailed in her destruction is a sentimental touch echoed in one former passenger's comment: "The staggering old reprobate. I loved her."

Chips

BY DAVE BROCK

SOME weeks back I printed a little item about the Moss Troopers of the Scottish border being cannibals only 300 years ago. (Or so a learned anthropologist maintains, in a standard work of reference.) Well, I had a letter about cannibalism from one of our readers. I've been re-reading it with much pleasure ever since, and I apologize for not letting other readers share that pleasure sooner. Not that the subject or the letter are merely of passing interest.

On the contrary, the subject will always fascinate any imagination that is amused by what the Germans call gallows humor, and others call Cockney humor (though it is no monopoly of the Cockney). And the letter is of considerable historic interest. Here it is:

"Some time about the beginning of the century I met an old, old cannibal in Fiji who got quite reminiscent on the subject of salt with his diet. He informed me that white men are not salty enough, black men are too salty, but Chinese are just right without any salt added. So now you are prepared."

"ABOUT the same period I remember getting a letter from an old friend who had started a general store in the New Hebrides group. (Between Fiji and the Solomons.) He told me he used to sell a line of canned mutton which seemed very popular with his native customers. On each can was a label with a picture of a sheep. Then the firm changed the picture to one of the manufacturer himself. This new line sold much faster from the start... In fact, his first shipment was cleared out in an hour. The New Hebrideans thought they'd got hold of some canned man."

I do wish people sent me more letters like that.

A DIRTY TRICK BUT QUITE A TRICK

I WAS telling a friend about a dog I once had who was a mind-reader, especially in his sleep... for example, if you thought very hard about "Cats" or "Rats" without uttering a sound, it would wake up barking and even rush out of the house. And I told her about a child I knew who could pick up all sorts of thoughts while he was young, enough to have him a blank, though he lost the knack later. For instance, I was giving him a bath and thinking about buying a can of enamel for some job or other, and he said "That's what this bath is made of," and I said "What?" and he said "Enamel."

HE did better than that, too... may be I've told you this story once before, but it's still true, unlike many stories repeated too often. We bought a house, and along with the house went a dog's grave, with a stone bearing the word "Petey." We didn't mention this to the little boy, and he knew nobody named "Petey." So we were a little staggered one day when he looked under his bed and asked an imaginary animal to come out. I asked what he thought he was talking to, and he said "Petey," quite surprised that I didn't know. He had one or two tricks a good deal more alarming than that, but as they are also more incredible I'll not print them here.

WELL, I told my friend a few of these things, and then I said "Not that I expect you to believe them. Just skip the whole thing." She said "Oh, but I've done a little fooling around with such things myself. You've no right to assume I'm any less crazy than you people. For example, I was in a hospital ward a few years ago, and I couldn't sleep, and though I wasn't very sick, I was in grave danger of being bored sick. So I thought to myself 'The heck with these people sleeping so greedily all around me. I'll see if I can't wake some of them up by planting thoughts in their sleeping minds.'"

"I didn't make any noise at all... just thought hard, and part of me was aiming at, so I aimed at the whole bunch, with a kind of blunderbuss effect. And boy, a blunderbuss it was, too. I got every one of 'em. The whole gang woke up simultaneously, and rather startled. Then they seemed to get quite cross with each other, they couldn't think why. I could. But I didn't want to boast. Besides, they wouldn't have believed me. So I just asked them to please stop talking and let me get a little sleep."

The Man Behind the Man Behind...

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART

CHARLES E. WILSON's troubles on Capitol Hill seem to be nearly over. Other and greater troubles await him a few miles away, at the Pentagon Building—troubles which have ruined the reputation of one predecessor, and killed another.

Wilson is reportedly approaching his tremendous new task with two slogans fixed firmly in mind. One is "More combat strength for less money." The other is: "Leave the military stuff up to the military, and production up to us."

The first slogan represents an absolutely essential objective. But it will be immensely difficult to realize. Getting more combat strength for less money is not a simple matter of "eliminating waste." Instead, it means dealing ruthlessly with the real underlying diseases which are attacking our defense system. The first of these wasting diseases is the Pentagon's consistent overinvestment, both in military manpower and in equipment.

Take a specific example of overinvestment in manpower. As Wilson takes office, there are about ninety-five combat wings in the Air Force, and just under a million men in Air Force uniforms. The largest number of planes in any one wing is seventy-five, the smallest thirty. The reader might try the experiment of asking a few friends how many men they would guess there are in Air Force blue for every thirty to seventy-five combat planes in the air.

Simple long division gives the surprising, and dismaying, answer—more than 10,000. This ratio of men in uniform to real combat power is downright fantastic. Wilson and his subordinates will find precisely the same lopsided ratio in all the services.

The Army has actually boasted in magazine advertisements that "behind every man with a gun there are twenty-five men in uniform." Any Soviet official responsible for making a similar boast would find himself moving rapidly in the direction of Siberia. The best available figures indicate that the Red Army recruits 22,000 men per war-strength division, as against 60,000-man American divisions of approximately equal fire power.

This use of limited American military manpower is not only expensive, since military pay takes an enormous slice of the defense budget, it is also a recipe for a disaster. So is the incredibly lavish investment in equipment.

Again, take a single specific example—the case of a gadget called an "intervalometer." An intervalometer is a switch which trips the shutter of a camera on a reconnaissance plane, giving a continuous sequence of the terrain being photographed. During the last war we had a pilot-operated intervalometer, which did this job very well. It cost about $80.

The Air Force has now ordered something else, called an "intervalometer system," which does the same job automatically. It will cost, initially, $180,000 per plane. The whole "intervalometer program" will cost about a quarter of a billion dollars—more than the whole Air Corps spent in any one year in the thirties.

No doubt the new automatic system will do the job better. But will it do the job more than 2,000 times better? Does the Air Force really need 10,000 men per thirty to seventy-five planes, and the Army 60,000 men per division? Wilson and his civilian subordinates are going to have to find solid, practical answers to thousands of such questions, if we are really to get "more combat strength for less money."

The trouble is that the answers cannot be found if the other Wilsonian slogan—"leave the military stuff up to the military, and production up to us"—is adhered to. For the military will always answer—quite sincerely and on seemingly sound military grounds—that the Army does indeed need 60,000 men per division, or that the intervalometer system is indeed an essential improvement. If the military answer is always accepted, then "economy" can only be achieved by hacking away at the real armed strength of the United States.

Boos Fail to Save Youth From Gallows

Crowd Shouts 'It's Murder' But Bentley Dies As Accessory to Murder of London Policeman

LONDON (UP)—Young Derek Bentley was hanged today in Wandsworth prison for a murder committed 15 minutes after he was arrested.

A crowd of several hundred booed and shouted, "It's murder," when notice of the 19-year-old youth's execution was posted on the huge wooden gates of the prison at 9.11 a.m. today.

Women screamed and men struggled with police to prevent official posting of the youth's hanging. The glass and frame cover over the notice—which publicly announces the execution—was smashed.

The crowd that gathered in the narrow road before the sprawling prison in a workers' district of London hurled coins at police and the notice on the gate.

Bentley was hanged for a murder he, himself, did not commit. The slum-born youth was being held in the arms of a detective when his companion, 16-year-old Christopher Craig shot and killed a police "nobby."

The boys were caught Nov. 2, 1952, breaking into a southwest London warehouse. They had been surrounded on a roof top when Bentley, unarmed, was seized.

As Bentley struggled in the arms of a detective he shouted "Let him have it, Chris." His young companion fired through a door killing Constable Sidney Miles. Craig, because of his age was imprisoned "during the Queen's pleasure."

Lord Chief Justice Robert Goddard, who sentenced Bentley to death, said his rooftop yell was the "most serious piece of evidence" against him.

The story mushroomed into one of Britain's biggest crime stories of the year.

The youth's death sentence caused a public clamor and was taken into the House of Commons on an appeal for clemency by more than 200 Socialists.

W. S. Morrison, the speaker of the House, refused to allow discussion of the sentence in Commons on the grounds it was against parliamentary law.

DEBATE FAILS

The Socialists protested from the House floor, but failed to bring on a debate.

Laborite Reginald Paget said the execution was a "horrible and shocking thing."

Said Paget: "A three-quarter witted boy of 19 is to be hanged for a murder which he did not commit and which was committed 15 minutes after he was arrested."

Left-wing Socialist Sydney Silverman started a petition to Queen Elizabeth II to intervene. However, later it was dropped in favor of an appeal to Home Secretary Sir Maxwell Fyfe, who had recommended that Bentley hang.

The appeal was signed by 200 Laborites, but Sir Maxwell turned it down—ending Bentley's last chance to escape the gallows.

Bentley's 52-year-old father, William Bentley, gathered more than 11,000 names on a petition pleading for his son's life.

The father appealed personally to Queen Elizabeth who replied the matter had been referred to Fyfe. An appeal to Prime Minister Winston Churchill received a similar reply.

B.C. Courts Upheld on Last Appeal

The Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday upheld British Columbia courts in dismissing a damage action against a Port Alberni drive-yourself car operator by a passenger injured in one of his automobiles.

The damage action was launched by Charles Kerr, Vancouver fisherman, against Alexander Cummings of Port Alberni. Kerr was injured when one of Cummings' cars, driven by J. T. Brentzen, crashed into a concrete abutment about 15 miles north of Nanaimo.

Brentzen and one passenger were killed. A third passenger was so badly injured he was unable to tell what happened. Kerr was asleep at the time.

Under the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act, Kerr would have to prove gross negligence or willful misconduct on the part of the driver to be able to collect damages from Cummings, the car owner.

The B.C. courts ruled Kerr had not proved this point and dismissed the action with costs. The Supreme Court of Canada dismissed an appeal with costs.

Provincial Parks Body Urged on Government

Establishment of a provincial parks commission has been recommended to Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers by the Garibaldi Park Board.

The board suggested the commission should operate under its own act and be charged with protection and development of all provincial parks.

The recommendation was presented to the minister by Dr. F. C. Bell, Garibaldi chairman.

Dr. Bell told Mr. Sommers until adequate provision is made for protection as well as for development of parks areas no change should be made in the present status of Garibaldi Park, which is governed by its own act.

(Partition of the park has been proposed repeatedly, but up to now there has been no change in the set-up under which an appointed board administers the park under the Garibaldi Park Act.)

LARGE ASSETS

The board's brief to the minister said the government has spent only a "few hundreds of dollars" on Garibaldi Park, but that under the present administration assets of $200,000 have been built up.

"The successful economies in this matter will probably not fail to impress your government and they are certainly ones for which the board makes no apology," said Dr. Bell.

Noting the government has asked for a factual report on the park, Dr. Bell said:

"The suggestion has been somewhat prominently advanced that Garibaldi Park Act should be rescinded and the park transferred to the park and recreational division of the forest service for future administration, and thereby dependence on budgeted sums of revenue from general revenues."

The board, he said, opposed such a step at the present time.

VANCOUVER DELEGATION TO SEEK GRID ENTRY

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-man delegation seeking a 1954 franchise in the Western Interprovincial Football Union left here Tuesday for Regina.

The bid will be made at the annual WIFU meeting opening Saturday.

"We're hoping for the best," said president Art Mercer, who is accompanied by vice-president Bill Morgan, treasurer Bill Ralston and secretary Ned Wigginton.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Without rascals there can be no heroes and that's where Horatio Alger, the wrestler, comes in. The grunt and groan business lives up to the faded hero in the best traditions of the book. You know: the hero loses his right arm, maybe a hand and two, and has his nose beat a tattoo with his spine, but he eventually wins.

Yeh, the villain must nearly always lose. Righteousness must prevail.

However, there are rules in the game, though they are extremely difficult to recognize. Why, in some states in the U.S. wrestlers can't even throw an opponent out of the ring.

Of course, that doesn't hold true in the Victoria Ballroom. That's why the villain slips in with the odd victory. Sure, the martyr has to act like one once in a while so the pilgrims who pay the pennies can weep a little in his blood.

Then there's another silly rule in force in some places. A wrestler can't hit a referee. Imagine that. It doesn't say anything about a referee hitting a wrestler, which is probably why this happens after said wrestler chokes his opponents for nine seconds. That's permissible, or didn't you know? Nothing stops until the referee counts 10. Usually they forget to count after nine, but that's strictly up to the referee, especially if the hero gives him the high sign.

As Sweet by Any Other Name

If you believe all this, though you may not if you're a mat fan, you'll probably admit that once in a while the result looks a little fishy. But if you're a detractor who goes just for the laughs, and there are plenty in this mode of showmanship, for your profit's sake, don't attempt to make fun of the hero when he's spitting teeth on the floor. Otherwise you're liable to get an elbow mixed up with your best upper plate. Mat fans are like that.

Of course, if you're a wrestler, and your popularity or bankroll hasn't been increasing at a rate appreciable with your personality, the obvious thing to do is change your name. The nomenclature of the game by any other name smells as sweet, often sweeter.

Take George Wagner for example. Ever hear of him? Possibly not. Well George is none other than "Gorgeous George," who hired himself a valet and a bottle of shampoo and started over again. Lu Kim, the Mongolian, happens to be a fellow by the common handle of Rube Wright blessed with an overabundant growth of foliage on his upper lip. The Great Scot is in reality a Scandinavian who makes his entrance in kilts. And so the entourage including such characters as The Great Togo and The Mighty Moto moves across the stage.

No Crybabies in This Business

But don't think for a moment that the mat game is all sham and showmanship. Ed Strangler Lewis was virtually blind when he crushed his last opponent's marcel. Rocky Brooks, the former city strong man, was totally blind for a time. Broken bones are part and parcel of the trade. Ribs don't mean a laugh. Noses change to tomato-shaped appendages and ears become better twisted than most pretzels.

And a note of warning! Stay away from those gals in the front row who come armed with damning needles, especially if you don't intend to take sides with Horatio. Night in and night out, he'll be the winner unless he violates the code. And that means expulsion to the salt mines, or as we said before, a change of title.

And really, you don't have to pity the rascals either, for if they're the cute kind that can draw customers, they'll maul the hero and get an even bigger house on their next appearance. That's why the real meanies earn up to 60,000 a year. And that friends, will make a lot of chowder.

White Sox Get Fain, Ed Robinson to A's

CHICAGO (AP)—Landing reliable Ferris Fain from Philadelphia Athletics has pumped Chicago White Sox full of 1953 pennant dreams.

General manager Frank Lane today was highly elated over his successful year-long attempt to purchase the 30-year-old first baseman who led American League batters with .344 in 1951 and .327 last season.

To get consistent-hitting Fain, the tidest bit of trade bait that has been dangling for two years, the White Sox gave up their only proven long-ball hitter, first-sacker Eddie Robinson.

That others were involved in the off-season's biggest baseball deal is somewhat inconsequential.

The Athletics also donated Bob Wilson, rookie second baseman, who batted .269 for Indianapolis in the American Association in 1952. The Sox gave up outfielder Ed McGhee and infielder Joe Demaestri, both unsuccessful in previous flings with Chicago.

The relinquishing of Robinson, 32-year-old power-swinging, who batted .296 last season, was viewed with some misgiving among White Sox fans who have thought all along that Lane was shopping for another long-ball hitter.

Robbie in the last two years has driven in twice as many as Fain, 221 to 111. Lane said Fain will fit in perfectly with the definite program we've been planning at Comiskey Park for years in getting a pennant winner.

At his home in Waxahatchie, Tex., Sox manager Paul Richards tabbed the trade as "ideal."

You'd Make Faces, Too

Whether it is from exertion or relief is not known, but Willie Troy (left) of Washington, D.C., grimaces unbecomingly to avoid the whooshing right hand thrown his way by Bobby Jones of San Francisco. Troy needn't have worried, however, as he regained his composure to win the 10-round at New York's St. Nicholas Arena on a split decision. (NEA Telephoto.)

Baker Changes Plans, Signs With Foul Bay

A passenger switched trains Tuesday and gave the Foul Bay lacrosse express considerable extra steam.

Norm Baker, who stated last week that he was retiring from active sports, signed a provisional agreement Tuesday, stating that he will play for Foul Bay if they receive a franchise in the Intercity Lacrosse League.

Baker said last week that injuries sustained last year would prevent him from playing this season.

A leg injury suffered in the league semifinals between Shamrocks and Indians prevented him from playing basketball and he had all but given up hope of recovering full use of the damaged leg.

However, Baker now has hopes that the damaged thigh muscles can be mended by surgery. Thus far therapy has failed.

CONDITIONAL AGREEMENT

The agreement Baker signed with Alex Macdonald's club reads: "I, Norman Baker, certify that I will sign for the Foul Bay lacrosse team if they are admitted to the Intercity Lacrosse League, and will serve them in any capacity as determined by the Foul Bay executive."

Addition of Baker brings to three the number of ex-Shamrocks who may line up with Foul Bay and when they are admitted to the league, Whitey Severson, who tied with Archie Browning for the league scoring championship last year, has stated he wishes to be Foul Bay's playing coach and it is rumored that Jackie Northup may also switch allegiance.

NEGOTIATIONS CONTINUE

Macdonald is still negotiating with three interior and three eastern players in an attempt to get a guarantee that the six players will join Foul Bay if the franchise is granted.

The Intercity Lacrosse Commission has decreed that definite proof must be established of the availability of the imports before any decision will be reached on Foul Bay's ultimate strength.

Those coming from Chemainus are Kerry Eastman, Glen Woodley, Richard McBride, Bruce Harwood, Bunny Crabbe and Pee Wee Chang.

ESKIMOS TO WELCOME BILLY VESSELS TODAY

EDMONTON (CP)—Executive manager Al Anderson of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference said Billy Vessels, Oklahoma halfback, is expected to arrive here today.

Anderson said he has had no definite word yet about arrival time of Vessels, voted the outstanding college player in the United States last season.

The executive manager said the club has received a number of applications for the coaching job made vacant when Frank Filchock did not return. These applications would be "screened" and the club would have a few of applicants come here for interviews.

Sedgman Tops Kramer Before Record Crowd

TORONTO (BUP)—Pocket two-day stand in New York, Jan. 11.

Sedgman had too much of an all-court game for Kramer who wilted in the clutch under the Aussie's powerful serves. Sedgman broke Kramer's serve in the fifth game of the first set in which he stroked three straight love games.

Kramer came back in the second set and appeared to be on the road to victory in the ninth game when his serve went into the net. Sedgman quickly recovered to take the game and went on to win the set.

Besides being Canada's largest tennis crowd, it also was the largest one-night attendance drawn during the tour so far. The previous high was the crowd of 11,100 which watched the second day of the tour's

Kilburn Scores Pair; Quakers, Stamps Win

Victoria 4, Tacoma 4
Saskatoon 5, Edmonton 4
Calgary 3, Vancouver 0

Eddie Mazur returned to the Cougar line-up Tuesday and didn't waste much time in making his presence felt. But it remained for chunky Colin Kilburn to pace the Cougars to a 4-4 tie with Tacoma Rockets at Tacoma.

Mazur scored early in the first period to give the Cougars one of the two leads they enjoyed during the game. Kilburn scored two goals, one to put the cats ahead 3-2 in the second period and his second to knot the count at 4-4 in the final period after the Rockets had forged in front on two quick goals.

Penalties played an important part in the game which enabled the Cougars to gain on sixth-place Edmonton and seventh-place New Westminster.

Mazur counted his goal at 2:50 of the first period with Tacoma short-handed, but the Rockets took advantage of a penalty to Don Webster to rap in two fast goals by Barton Bradley and Len Halderon to take a 2-1 edge. Andy Heblston scored with Doug Adam in the penalty box to tie the score before the period's end.

After Kilburn put the Cougars ahead in the second period, the Rockets exploded with two goals by Halderon and Wingy Johnston, 39 seconds apart, in the third to again move in front. Kilburn scored the tying goal with only one minute and eight seconds remaining.

CANUCKS BLANKED

Calgary Stampeders opened their final coast visit of the Western Hockey League season by bounding over the first hurdle with no trouble at all. Revenging a win Vancouver took on Calgary home ice last week, Stampeders whitewashed Canucks 3-0 in the opener of a five-game coast campaign. This assist from Calgary, as well as their own 5-4 win over Edmonton Flyers, moved Saskatoon Quakers back into a first-place tie with Canucks.

Canucks' Harry Dick played the full guy for Steve Wituk in the game against Calgary. Wituk scored his first goal while Dick was in the penalty box, leaving Vancouver a man short, and his second of the night when he grabbed the puck from the Vancouver player inside the Canuck blue-line.

Roy Kelly was the other scorer as Stamps connected once in the first period and twice in the third to blank Emile Francis.

Referee Ross Valliere was knocked unconscious by a body check from Fred Brown of Vancouver and the game was delayed 15 minutes. The accident was believed accidental.

THIRD STRAIGHT LOSS

Saskatoon scorers were Alex Kaleta, Jackie McLeod, Herb Jeffrey, Johnny Chad and Carl Kaiser. Ray Hannigan paced Flyers with two goals while Francis O'Grady and Vic Stasiuk got the others.

The loss was the third straight for Flyers.

Navy Team Hit by Loss Of Standley, Johnson

FOURTH ENTRY SOUGHT FOR KINSMEN TOURNEY

Necessity of setting back their tournament to Feb. 6 and 7 has thrown Kinsmen Basketball Tournament officials for a 10-yard loss.

Seattle Alpine Dairy and Buchanan's Bakeries have agreed to come to Victoria on the new date but Alberni Athletics will be unable to take part because of previous commitments and a fourth team is being sought.

Vancouver Eilers and Clover Leafs are unable to make the tournament and invitations have been sent to UBC Thunderbirds and Bellingham G-Men but replies have not yet been received.

Kiner, Thomas Wince As Bucs Wield Knife

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Branch Rickey, the economy-minded general manager of Pittsburgh Pirates has sharpened his salary knife and the first stroke brought help from National League home-run king Ralph Kiner and rookie fence-buster Frank Thomas.

Kiner picked up $90,000 last year in salary and bonuses. The Pirates want to slice the figure by 25 per cent and the 30-year-old outfielder figures the Pirate brass is off its rocker.

Thomas, who hit 35 home runs for the Pirates-owned New Orleans club in the class AA Southern Association, says he'll quit unless the Pirates fork over more cash.

The Bucs paid the 22-year-old native of Pittsburgh $5,000 last year. This is the maximum for players on option from the parent club.

Kiner says he deserves more than the Pirates want to dish out. "I just can't see the Pirates offering me a contract calling for a 25 per cent cut from my 1952 contract," moaned the 30-year-old outfielder.

"I consider myself of value as a gate attraction and want to be paid accordingly. Branch Rickey Jr. told me I was being asked to take the maximum slash because the club lost money last year."

Thomas, who hit 35 home runs for the Pirates-owned New Orleans club in the class AA Southern Association, says

he'll quit unless the Pirates fork over more cash.

The beleaguered Navy club of the Commercial Hockey League loses its top scorer and its hardest-hitting defenseman this week-end.

Flashy Neil Standley, holder of second-place in the league scoring race, and defenseman Doug Johnson, both leave on drafts this week-end and will probably be lost to the club for the rest of the season.

The loss of Standley who had recorded 21 points leaves the scoring race with Victoria Merchants occupying the first six runs on the scoring ladder.

BROWN LEADS

Toby Brown is still first with 14 goals and 11 assists for 25 points while Merchant defenseman Ab Wiebe takes over Standley's vacated second place with six goals and 12 assists for a 18-point total.

Connie McBeth and Norm LaCree are tied behind Wiebe with 17 points and clubmate Ron Bremner has 16.

Army's Les Corby breaks the Merchant monopoly with his 15-point total on 11 goals and four assists.

Navy's Norm Jones is still the top netminder in the circuit with a 2.92 goals-against average in 13 games.

Moore Scores Kayo

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Archie Moore, entering the ring for the first time since winning the light-heavyweight title, knocked out Toxie Hall of Chicago Tuesday night in the fourth round.

NEW YORK (UP)—Current tennis stars like Maureen Connolly, Frank Sedgman and Jack Kramer are making a determined bid for net immortality today but "Big Bill" Tilden and Helen Wills Moody still head the all-time court parade.

This is disclosed in a new all-time first 10 selected by Mercer Beasley, the game's best known coach and president of the Professional Lawn Tennis Association.

Beasley, who tutored such stars as Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, Frankie Parker, Pancho Segura and Doris Hart, keeps "Big Bill" and "Little Miss Poker Face" at the top of the all-time heap. But he moves Miss Connolly all the way up to fourth place and puts Kramer and Sedgman at seven and eight respectively.

That's quite a leap for "Little Mo" and the Australian recently turned professional, because a year ago they wouldn't have been within hailing distance of the all-time first 10.

Beasley's "all-timers" among the men in order are: Tilden, Henri Cochet of France, Don Budge, Jean Rene Lacoste of France, Fred Perry of England, Vines, Kramer, Sedgman, Bobby Riggs and Pariser.

His women's first 10 are: 1, Moody; 2, Alice Marble; 3, Suzanne Lenglen of France; 4, Connolly; 5, Moila Mallory, 6, Helen Jacobs; 7, Pauline Betz Addie; 8, Margaret Osborne Du Pont; 9, Doris Hart, and 10, Louise Brough.

"Tilden had everything and his eight U.S. and three Wimbledon championships prove that," says the man who taught tennis for 30 years. "Cochet I put second in anticipation, while Budge earns third ranking as a perfectionist with the power game."

"Fourth place goes to Lacoste, another of France's 'three musketeers,' because he was a great marksman, Beasley added, "while Perry possessed a fine all-round game as well as the greatest reflexes ever seen on the courts. Vines had speed and the greatest flat forehand."

Kramer and Sedgman rank so far back, even though currently they are the best in the world, because Beasley believes that those first six had the all-around game to keep the two current stars in the back court—and thus beat them.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Freddie Beasley, 196, Los Angeles, outpointed Abel Fernandez, 195, Mexico City, 10.

WIFE WANTS KIBOSH ON PLAN FOR DIVORCE BY "SKHIBOSH"

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Khadiza Zrain Abdo, a Lebanese Moslem, Tuesday contested her husband's contention that he divorce her under rules of the Moslem Sunnite sect by shouting "skhibosh" at her three times.

Mohamet M. Abdo, wealthy rug dealer, countered his wife's suit for separate support by claiming he is divorced from her.

Abdo told Judge Arthur W. Davis that he divorced her "firmly and permanently" by shouting the three "skhiboshes" two days after their marriage in Lebanon in December, 1949.

Mrs. Abdo testified, however, that he couldn't divorce her under sect rules without making a cash settlement.

Abdo, who started in business in the U.S. 30 years ago with a pack on his back, said he is aware that a man must support his wife, but, he added, he has no obligation to Khadiza.

The hearing continues.

Ireland Traces Esquimalt History For Past Century

History of Esquimalt for 100 years prior to Confederation was outlined to the municipal ratepayers' association Tuesday night by provincial archivist Willard Ireland.

Commencing with the early Spanish explorations, he advanced to the building of the Hudson's Bay Company fort at Victoria, explaining that the open ground and the availability of water made the site preferable to Esquimalt.

Mr. Ireland told of the building of the first defense system at Esquimalt, soon after the British survey vessels Pandora and Herald arrived here.

The first fortifications, three little buildings called Crimean Huts, were intended to defend the island from Russians who might have been diverted from the Crimean War.

Esquimalt played an important part in Confederation, the speaker said. The old graving dock, still used in HMC Dockyard, was one of British Columbia's bargaining points before entering the provincial union.

Although the graving dock was not completed until 1887, 16 years after B.C. entered Confederation, it was as important to the people of Vancouver Island as the railway was to the mainlanders.

Red Cross Asks $70,000 Here

Report Sees Necessity of $2,000 Increase in Annual Budget

Victoria City and District Branch, Canadian Red Cross, maintained all former services yet stayed within its budget in 1952, despite rising costs.

Col. M. W. Turner, president, said at the annual meeting of the branch today that in some cases services were expanded.

He announced the district quota in the 1953 national campaign for funds will be $70,500, an increase of $2,000 over the quota of 1952.

The financial statement submitted by H. E. Geddes, honorary treasurer, showed that branch operating expenses for the year were $22,963.04. Since the total revenue of the branch for the year was $85,873.22, the balance of $63,010.18 was made available to the society.

Largest sums in the list of expenditures were $4,701 for the homemakers' service, $3,612 for secretarial salaries, $3,433 for the blood transfusion service and $3,500 put toward the Red Cross Lodge maintenance account.

Remainder of the $22,963.04 was spent on social assistance, and office, workroom and maintenance expenses.

BLOOD DONORS GAIN

Blood donor panel reported 10,108 attended 39 clinics during the year, as against 7,267 the year before. There are now 11,367 registrants, an increase of 3,094.

The panel chairman, M. L. Fitzgerald, announced further that all emergency calls from local hospitals were met. New facilities in the J. Keith Wilson Memorial Addition have a capacity of 60 donors per hour, he said.

E. Heybroek and B. P. Alley, co-chairmen of the campaign committee, reported $82,536 collected in the annual campaign with total administration cost of 2.81 per cent. There were 18,549 contributions, the chairman said.

VETERANS' PARTICIPATION

Mrs. H. F. Crowe, reporting for the arts and crafts committee, said 384 patients at the Veterans' Hospital took part in projects. Through a showcase in the Red Cross Lodge lobby there has been a steady sale of handmade articles, and efforts are being made to provide a larger display case, she reported.

Canadian Red Cross Corps report, made by Mrs. K. C. Hadow, showed a total of 83 active and reserve members. In the past year members were trained in first aid, motor transport, disaster nursing and civil defense, yet devoted a total of 2,030 hours to other Red Cross activities.

Dr. Olga Jardine, chairman of the home emergency service, reported that 261 families were given assistance by Red Cross "mothers" during the year. She acknowledged at the same time that 95 calls for help had to be refused due to lack of workers.

BREAKDOWNS INCREASE

Dr. Jardine called attention to the fact that the number of nervous breakdown cases was increasing, judging by figures kept by her committee.

Col. J. Q. Gillan, chairman of the disaster service committee, reported his group had little work to do during 1952 as most of the functions it originally had undertaken had been absorbed by the Greater Victoria Civil Defense Organization.

Miss Honor Nash, chairman of the women's work committee, said 3,707 articles of clothing had been shipped from here to Red Cross divisional headquarters in the last year. She said, too, that local women had made and shipped 93,400 dressings used by the blood transfusion service.

G. W. Carr of the veterans' welfare committee, reported activities of that group had been curtailed considerably during the year and that it was only acting now in cases in which the DVA could be of little or no help.

INSTRUCTION RECORD

Mrs. W. H. Brimblecombe, chairman of the swimming and water safety committee, called attention to the various instructional courses provided by Red Cross in the last 12 months.

Mrs. A. D. Straith, reporting on the Red Cross Lodge maintained next to the DVA Hospital, said 1952 was busier and more profitable than the previous year.

W. McCurdy, chairman of publicity, lauded Victoria newspapers and radio stations for their assistance in promoting all phases of Red Cross work.

Denis W. Brown, chairman of Junior Red Cross activities, objected to the removal from Victoria of a Junior Red Cross organizer and field worker. He said this phase of Red Cross work could not operate to the maximum of efficiency until the field worker was re-established here.

He threatened to resign unless this position was filled at an early date.

Mrs. Charles Beard, chairman of the hospital visiting committee, reported that 20,312 patients in institutions in this area were visited by Red Cross representatives during 1952.

Mrs. S. G. Cave reported that 309 articles were lent to persons coming to the loan cupboard during the year. Articles available for loan include hospital-type beds, wheelchairs, crutches, air cushions and other sick-room necessities.

Parents Moving To Save Mt. Tolmie Scout Hall

A threat by Saanich building officials to close the Mount Tolmie Scout and Guide Hall on Shelbourne Street has aroused parents in that area. They are working together to forestall such action.

The officials maintain the hall has been used too long without being finished to a point where it complies with all building by-laws.

The small group which started to build the hall five years ago ran into difficulties before the building was finished. Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and Guides have been using the centre while Saanich authorities closed their eyes to the fact that the by-law requirements were not met.

Progress has been so slow, however, that the parents' association has been given an ultimatum—finish it or close it.

There are now 150 parents and 250 children involved and the decision has been reached to launch an all-out drive for $2,000, the sum needed to complete the project.

Biggest venture in the fund drive will be a "Save the Hall" festival at the K of P Hall, February 21.

Operation On Brodie Twin Is Postponed

Faces 'Years of Skull Surgery'

CHICAGO (BUP)—A postponed operation to finish covering the exposed brain of separated Siamese twin Rodney Dee Brodie with skin transplants will be undertaken within the next few weeks.

Doctors at the University of Illinois Educational and Research Hospital originally planned to complete the brain covering this week, but called it off Tuesday to give previous grafts a little more time to heal.

Two previous plastic operations have covered at least 75 per cent of the 16-month-old boy's brain with skin transplants. Both operations were undertaken since the Dec. 17 surgery which separated Rodney Dee from his weaker twin.

The twin, Roger Lee, died last week after 34 days in a deep coma. He had been joined to Rodney Dee at the top of their skulls.

Even after the next operation, Rodney Dee will face "years" of surgery to repair his skull. Among the procedures will be one to place a permanent and strong brain "protection"—possibly bone grafted from his thigh, or metal or plastic—under the skin flaps.

HELLO, BABY!
GOODBYE, BONDS?

It was a worrying time... when it should have been a happy one. The stork was flying our way, but we didn't have the money needed to welcome our new baby. After going over our finances for the umpteenth time, we decided there was nothing for it but to cash our bonds. There had been too many 'surprise' expenses.

Luckily for us, our B of M manager had other ideas. "Here's a real chance for you to save, and you're missing it," he smiled.

"Save? At a time like this?" we nearly shouted. "It's not as hard as you think," he said, "... quite a few of my customers do it."

"First, you have to plan yourself a budget... You need a road map, if you're to know where you're going with your money. Here's a little booklet called 'Personal Planning'. Read it carefully. It shows you how to work out your own way of getting ahead, financially—and how to save regularly from now on."

"But how can we save in our present pickle?" I asked him.

"Borrow against your bonds," he said. "You've got a steady job. After all, if you cash your bonds now, you'll have the money you need, but you won't have any savings left. If you use your bonds to borrow, you get them back by paying off your loan instalments. In other words, you're saving your savings. This is one of the times when borrowing is really saving."

Our story has a happy ending, because our financial worries went out of the window before the stork flew in. Yes, our baby had a happy welcome. We paid back the loan. Now, we still have our bonds, we're living on a budget suited to our needs and aims, AND we're saving regularly.

Saving is the only way to move ahead of your worries, and stay ahead. And—sometimes—borrowing at the B of M is the best way to save. Find out how to save despite today's high prices. Ask for your copy of "Personal Planning" at your neighborhood B of M branch. It's yours for the asking.

Raid Linen Shelf
When Redecorating

By PENNY SAVER

If you are like a lot of housewives I know you like to go on a redecorating spree every once in awhile.

A budget-wise housewife raids her linen shelves for decorating materials. Sounds like fun, doesn't it. And let me assure you that it can be done with astounding results.

Turn the knob of your linen closet door and look at what you find through a lens of imagination.

At first glance sheets and towels may seem unlikely materials.

Your bedroom can be turned into a bower of femininity with the aid of sheets and a bit of trim from the dime store. Pastel sheets are particularly attractive, or you may dye old sheets that have become too thin to take any more wear.

To make an interesting window treatment, begin by cutting a double-bed size sheet in half, lengthwise.

Determine the proper length and either make a heading or use a self-pleater from a drapery counter. Finish with an edging of eyelet embroidery, self-ruffle or rick-rack.

A vanity skirt is also easily made from sheets and you will achieve an added note of attractiveness if you cover the top of your dresser with the material and then cover that again with glass.

If there's a bare and unadorned window in your bathroom, pick out the largest and most luxurious towel on your linen shelf. Drape it, swag-fashion, across the top of your window.

In case your abode is a temporary one, you probably don't want to invest large sums in drapery material. Try a towel swag in the kitchen, breakfast nook or in the children's room. When you move, your towel can return to its original function, since there's no cutting involved.

Even if your linen supply can't support such raids, you can still add gaiety and interest to your home with cotton ensembles for bedroom or nursery.

Choose for your daughter or son a sturdy broadcloth in a juvenile print, then apply sew-it-yourself techniques to cut costs. It's a good idea to choose materials that have been sanforized to prevent loss of love's labor with the first laundering.

These are just a few suggestions, but they may start you along with this line of decorating. If you follow this through you'll find you won't have many pennies to spend to get the desired effect.

AS WE LIVE

Unappreciative Wife Is Due
For Rude Awakening By Mate

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a wife appreciates all her husband does for her and their children, he has a real incentive to work. This man's wife doesn't.

(Q) "What do you suggest that a man in my position do? I am the father of four children. I work on two jobs which keep me busy from 7 a.m. to 9 or 10 p.m. We have everything in the house that a woman could want. My wife is always nagging and scolding the children and she is always angry. She sits most of the day watching television while the children are in school. When I come home after my second job, she won't even fix a cup of coffee for me. I am very discouraged. What should I do?"

(A) While your wife may have the material comforts of life, it is possible that she feels that she and the children are missing out on what other women have—the companionship of her husband. Working for such long hours gives you little time to be with your family. Why not give them your companionship instead of so many material possessions?

If you cannot make ends meet with the salary you receive from one job, why couldn't your wife take a part-time job to supplement the family income?

If she has time to watch television all day while the children are in school, she would be better off doing something to help the family. And the opportunity to be with other people at work may improve her disposition.

No matter how cross and irritable she may be, you should not tolerate it. It is unfair to you and the children to have an unhappy home environment.

Take a firm stand. Tell her you will not work day and night to provide luxuries for her when she makes your life and the lives of your children wretched. The least she can do is to have a pleasant smile, a cheery word, and a cup of hot coffee-ready for you when you return home after a back-breaking day of work.

Why not try it and see if her attitude toward you and the children improves?

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

Great Britain's Place in World is As Mediator, Speaker Tells Club

British diplomacy, as exemplified in the "judgment and compassion of Eden and the genius of Churchill," was explained to the Women's Canadian Club, Tuesday afternoon, by Max Freedman, associate editor of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Without notes and with an easy flow of words that marks the outstanding speaker, Mr. Freedman divided his address into clear cut segments, that, placed in proper position, presented a picture of Great Britain's place in the free world's search for peace.

Commencing with the United States, the speaker pointed out that nothing in the world was so important as "the constant co-operation of London and Washington."

"If this is accomplished," he said, "when the test comes... as come it must... we will have a foundation of good will between these two great powers upon which to rely and build."

Swinging quickly to Europe, where he had recently spent six months visiting every country this side of the Iron Curtain, Mr. Freedman touched on the Schuman formula for an European army.

"Britain is staying aloof at present to allow the Europeans to work out a solution. If needed, she is in a better position than any of the other powers to act as mediator," he said.

Mr. Freedman spoke of the Middle East, "where there is far more unhappiness than in Europe and where Russia is showing strong interest" and of Iran and Egypt.

"People forget that Britain has already promised the northern Sudan its freedom to join with Egypt. It is only in the South Sudan that Britain must, in honor, pursue the policy of giving the people a choice as to whether they wish to follow such a policy or not," he explained.

In the Far East, the speaker said, Britain needs the friendship of India and Pakistan and therefore is willing to diplomatically "pay the price of occasional Indian criticism in order to have that friendship."

"The present situation in China has been building up for years, the speaker pointed out.

"It is the result of social, commercial and historical forces beyond our power," he said, "it is the historical challenge of our times."

"We must accept Communist

China as it is today, or drive it further toward Russia," he explained.

"We must look to the future, not to the past!"

Mr. Freedman closed with a brief review of events affecting Israel, the third tension point in the middle East, showing how the United States "because they believed in it" and Russia "because they wished to incite the Arab world to war" supported Israel's request for an "national state."

"All these countries in their own way are working to build a free world," he concluded.

"Great Britain's place in this work is often misunderstood, but Great Britain has gone through hard times in the past and survived. Her place in the future is as mediator. She alone can bring the free world together in good will."

"I cannot conceive of an international community of any sort in which Great Britain did not take her rightful place in a creative role."

She has also spent much time studying labor and industrial relations and management, and in 1931 was the only woman member of a specialist team that visited the United States on the invitation of ECA to study education for management.

In addition to her managerial work, Miss Foyle has many other activities. She sits on committees and boards, is president of welfare research groups and is a brilliant speaker, both on the platform and over the air. She is equally at home speaking to a group of businesswomen on management as she is lecturing to a women's club on women in Britain today.

Her hobbies are gardening, walking and reading.

At noon on Friday Miss Foyle will address the Lions Club.

Her lecture tour includes Vancouver, Ottawa, Edmonton, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If creamed tuna is a favorite stand-by at your house for Friday night supper give it this tasty touch now that winter avocados are in season. Heat a can of mushroom soup with a little milk. Add a can of tuna and heat until bubbly. Remove from heat and add a diced avocado. Serve immediately on fluffy rice.

If you're buying walnuts in the shell to use in cooking and baking we suggest shelling only as many as you'll use right away. Walnuts keep better in the shell than out. If you want to buy shelled walnuts you'll find them packed in vacuum-sealed containers.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Obtain As Many Vitamins As Possible in Your Food

Groups seem to be more effective and happier than singles. This goes for vitamins as well as for human beings.

Take the vitamin B family as an example. That family acquires new children continually. It started out with vitamins B1 and B2 (thiamin and riboflavin). Today most physicians prefer vitamin B complex, or the whole family, rather than any one member of the family except in special cases. I do not suppose that the entire vitamin B family has yet been presented to the world.

Vitamins seem to work best in combination. This is one of the main reasons why doctors advise you not to depend on synthetic vitamins but to try to eat so that you will get as many of them as possible in their natural form. Who knows yet what unknown particle of vital substance may be combined by nature into a mouthful? I, for one, always have the feeling that perhaps an ace will turn up in the next meal or in the next bridge hand.

Some optimistic souls have taken vitamins to their systems, with the thought, "Now I can eat just as my taste buds suggest so long as I take my vitamin pills." This is entirely contrary to the tenets of good nutrition. Wonderful results have been accomplished by large dosages of a specific vitamin to a special condition (prescribed by a physician).

However, if you substitute vitamin capsules for good nutrition you are being very foolish. Get vitamins in their natural form as often as you can. Many folks eat as scientifically as possible and then reinforce their daily menus with daily vitamin capsules because they are interested in optimum vitality and in prolonging the youthful portion of life. I belong to that school.

If we knew all there is to know about vitamins and had the time to investigate the kind of soil our vegetables were grown in, and the length of time our fruits were in storage, we might not have any need for vitamin capsules but could obtain all we could use from our foods. However, today it seems wise to eat as well as we can and then reinforce in the spots in which we are most apt to be deficient.

The nice thing about this whole picture is the fact that so many of the vital foods are also very palatable. Lean meat when baked or broiled retains much more of its rich flavor than it does when fried or boiled; brown rice has a much nuttier, fuller flavor than polished white rice, and the natural and subtle flavors of fresh vegetables and fruits are lost in highly-seasoned disguise.

East well and happily but intelligently and in pleasant surroundings for a long life.

If you would like to have my booklet No. 37 "Vitamin Defense," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Double Ring Ceremony Is Performed in Candlelight

In the soft glow of candlelight, vows were exchanged Saturday evening in St. John's Anglican Church, by Kathleen Elizabeth (Kay), only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Macham, 821 Jasmine Avenue, and Edward Cecil Salmon, son of Mrs. E. H. Salmon, North Battleford, Sask., and the late Mr. Salmon.

Canon George Biddle performed the ceremony and F. Chubb played traditional wedding music. During signing of the register, Mrs. Pauline Beech, Vancouver, cousin of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love."

Pink and white snapdragons and yellow daffodils decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony, and small posies of daffodils marked guest-pews. The fair-haired bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in the primrose yellow costume which she had made herself. The ballroom-length gown featured a French lace bodice with Queen Anne collar and lily-point sleeves, buttoning to the waist and extending in a star pattern over the full triple nylon net skirt, all over taffeta. Her filmy primrose embroidered finger-tip veil fell from a beaded headpiece, and she wore yellow satin slippers. She carried a bouquet of gardenia, centred with orange blossoms from her mother's wedding veil, while her jewelry was gold and pearl earrings, a gift of the groom.

Attending the bride was Miss Muriel Jones, Alberni, as maid of honor, wearing apple green and Miss Joan Baird, bridesmaid, in pale pink. Their identical strapless ballerina dresses were of nylon net with a ruffle around the full skirt, and their jackets were of lace with wing collars and long sleeves. They carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Miss Geraldine Macham, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, wearing a ballerina dress of pastel yellow brocade taffeta, and carrying a colonial bouquet. All attendants wore matching bandeaux of velvet and spring flowers with eye veils.

Mr. Vernon Richards acted as best man and Mr. Harvey McMieken and Mr. Omar Bertrand ushered.

During the reception held in the Business and Professional Woman's Hall, their parents assisted the young couple in receiving their guests. A three-tier wedding cake centred the refreshment table, which was decorated with spring flowers.

Mr. Ernest Clabon of Vancouver proposed the toast. Leaving for a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs, the bride donned a navy blue gabardine suit, moss green boucle top coat, navy and green accessories, and a mauve orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Salmon will make their home at 1040 Burdett Avenue.

Why is breakfast so important?

You can't work or feel your best during the mornings unless you make a good breakfast a regular habit. Skimping on breakfast or going without lowers your efficiency. Enjoy a good variety of foods at breakfast but for a good, basic rule always include a proper whole-grain cereal. Among the most frequently recommended is Red River Cereal, which provides the nourishment of cracked wheat, whole flax (mildly laxative) and rye. So for fitness' sake... eat a good breakfast.

Here's how to plan "the most important meal of the day"

Breakfast is generally regarded as the most important meal of your day. Plan it right. Get the nourishment and vital elements you need from fruit juice, a cooked cereal, eggs or bacon, and milk.

Here are just two suggestions

One orange or half a glass of orange juice. Serving of Red River Cereal with milk or cream and sugar. Whole-wheat bread and butter. Tea, coffee or a milk drink.

Half grapefruit or strawberries when in season. Serving of Red River Cereal with milk or cream and sugar. Toast with butter or margarine. Tea, coffee or milk.

Government Faces Big Issues As Legislative Debate Nears

By GORDON FORBES
Times Legislative Reporter
British Columbia's 23rd Legislature opens next Tuesday with a nucleus of veterans of political battles and a large contingent of inexperienced hands. Twenty-nine members of the 48-member legislature have never sat in the legislature before.

In the 19-member minority Social Credit government only two persons, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Education Minister Tilly Rolston, have had legislative experience.

Sitting in opposition benches are 15 experienced MLAs.

Opinions are varied about "the session." Some say it will be a spectacular one, full of fireworks. Others contend it will be unspectacular for the most part, with all parties playing a "watching and waiting" game.

The session, however, is bound to have its tense moments.

The Socialists are a minority government which can be unseated by a combined vote of the opposition parties. In effect, the government will be walking an endless tightrope.

Unless it wants to be defeated on the floor of the House it will have to guard against provoking an issue which the Liberals, who hold the balance of power, cannot support.

CAN'T BE SURE
But nobody is ruling out the possibility that the Socialists will deliberately introduce some legislation which the Liberals cannot vote for.

Premier Bennett wants a general election soon. If he felt Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace would refuse him dissolution of the legislature soon after the session he might purposely create an issue on which his government would fall.

If the premier is thinking along these lines, no such action would come until late in the session.

The legislature actually has two years' work to tackle. Last year's session, held after the break-up of the Coalition government, did little business. The new legislature must now take it on.

The session is expected to last from six to eight weeks.

Night sessions, the usual method of speeding up sessional progress, will not be as easily instituted as usual because of the government's position.

BUSY ROUND
Cabinet ministers will be required to sit on committees because of the shortage of government members. This means cabinet meetings will take up most mornings, House sittings every afternoon, and committee meetings the night. Committee meetings are usually held in the mornings, allowing night sittings of the House when the legislators get behind in their work.

Of the many important pieces of legislation coming before the legislature, probably the most interesting to the public will be that drafting a new "drinks-by-the-glass" liquor distribution system in the province.

The government will base its new legislation on the report of the liquor inquiry commission, headed by Hon. H. H. Stevens. It will be the first major change in the province's liquor laws in more than 30 years.

The new system will be in operation by this summer.

Hospital insurance undoubtedly will provoke many heated debates in the House as the CCF and the Liberals have been continually attacking the Social policy.

But there are indications the government intends to ride out the storm without any further big changes in the plan. The government is hoping to quench criticism by presenting to the House a report on hospital insurance showing BCHIS to be in a sound financial state.

But the Opposition will want the government to take a stand on the compulsory versus voluntary aspect of the scheme. Government opponents contend the Socialists, who promised a voluntary plan, now have a "half and half policy" which is threatening to kill hospital insurance.

EXEMPTIONS DUE
On sales tax, the government will raise the exemption on meals from 50 cents to $1. It may also make children's clothing and certain medicines exempt.

A 10 per cent reduction in car license fees may be ordered. No decision has been made on this point.

The government will present to the legislature a new formula for distributing the costs of education. This formula is still being framed, and may not be completed until well on in the session.

There is a strong possibility the government will introduce a new formula for provincial-municipal sharing of social assistance costs, now the source of great dissatisfaction among municipal leaders.

MUNICIPAL BALK
The province previously shared costs on an 80-20 basis with municipalities, the province paying the greater share. But two recent increases have been shared on a 50-50 basis.

On the second increase, most municipalities balked and hundreds of social assistance cases were deprived of the last boost.

The milk issue, always good for a legislative debate, is under consideration by the government. The possibilities appear: 1. removal of all restrictions on stores selling milk at a lower price than the going price for delivered milk; 2. removal of all price controls above the producer level.

In public works, there have been hints that the new government's highway program will top all previous efforts. Emphasis still will be placed on arterial highways.

Labor legislation remains a mystery. The 1952 Workmen's Compensation report, recommending wide changes in the act and increased benefits, and the ICA Act inquiry board report, recommending abolition of the supervised strike vote, received little attention from the last government. The new government is silent on its plans, if it has any.

Much of the public attention will be focused on two important special committees during the session.

Of most interest to Vancouver Islanders will be a committee to investigate the controversial Butte Lake issue. The committee will hear all comers, probably visit the area, and then report to the legislature which will make the final decision.

Other special committee will wrestle with the problem of redistribution of political representation in the province. This could be the centre of much stormy debate.

This year's private bills committee will have the tremendous task of dealing with 800 sections of a new Vancouver private charter.

"OPERATION ALUMINUM"

...half way

The first stage of the big aluminum development at Kitimat—400 miles north of Vancouver—is moving ahead on schedule. KENNEY DAM is finished and water is rising in the 350-square-mile lake it is creating. The ten-mile TUNNEL with a drop sixteen times that of Niagara Falls, is now driven about one-half of the way through the mountain toward the half-completed KEMANO POWERHOUSE. Rock miners, working out a mile-high mountain, are carving out a cavern three city blocks long, preparing the way for the installation of three 150,000 h.p. generators. TRANSMISSION LINE work is well advanced; the fifty miles of right-of-way between Kemano and Kitimat has been cleared and many of the 250 towers erected. The SMELTER is steadily rising in the cleared forest site. Target date for the first pour of aluminum is spring, 1954. Operation Aluminum in British Columbia is on schedule!

...nearing completion

The new CHUTE DU DIABLE powerhouse on the Peribonka River, in the Saguenay district, is in full operation. Its five 55,000 h.p. generators are now feeding power to Alcan's smelters in the Saguenay valley. CHUTE-A-LA-SAVANNE, downstream from Chute du Diable, is also rapidly approaching the day when all five of its generators will add 270,000 h.p. to the Saguenay power network. ISLE MALIGNÉ smelter addition is now in production and its full capacity is available for civilian and defense needs. In 1953, Alcan's four smelters in the Province of Quebec will produce over 1 billion pounds of aluminum ingot for the markets of the free world.

In the fifty-two years since the first Canadian aluminum plant opened at Shawinigan Falls, Canada's aluminum industry has grown to be the second largest in the world; and Canada now exports more aluminum than any other country.

Still the need grows, both at home and abroad, for this light, strong, modern metal of many uses. And Aluminum Company of Canada is putting man-power, and money, and engineering brains, and imagination into the job of keeping up with the demand.

Aluminum is "packaged power". The electricity needed to produce one ton of aluminum would light the average home for nearly a generation. By making use of Canada's abundant, low-cost power, this Canadian enterprise has created employment and income for tens of thousands: for the men who build and operate the dams and powerhouses, the docks and smelters and power lines it needs; and for the more than one thousand independent Canadian companies who turn aluminum into countless forms important to industry and our own daily living.

Science Has Much to Discover About the Nature of Viruses

Viruses are no respecters of age, but some viruses certainly attack children much more than grown-ups. Among the best known of such diseases are measles, mumps and poliomyelitis, though all of them may attack a susceptible adult.

It is a little difficult to separate the viral diseases of children from those of grown-ups, but in addition to those mentioned, there are some others. For example, during the last few years, many communities have been affected with what is probably a viral disease, sometimes called the vomiting sickness, and spoken of more severely by medical men as "epidemic vomiting and diarrhea."

This condition comes with remarkable suddenness, and after a day or so the children seem to be entirely recovered. For this reason, it has so far been almost impossible to really study this disorder or to find out whether a virus is really responsible or not.

There are other curious conditions which seem to spring up from time to time that are equally obscure as to cause and treatment. Sometimes the children or grown-ups affected have symptoms similar to those of mild influenza or "flu." Indeed it is possible that such attacks may be caused by the same virus which is responsible for more typical cases of influenza.

The past 20 years have yielded a great deal of information on many of the viral diseases. There is, however, a long way still to go. Much more has to be learned about the nature of viruses, the differences between the various kinds, and the treatment of the diseases which they cause.

QUICK RECOVERY

Sooke 'Farmer' Garnett Weston Writes Another Moving Picture

When the average farmer goes to town it's usually to see the sights. But when Sooke "farmer" Garnett Weston comes into town this Friday it will be to see a movie—one that he has written.

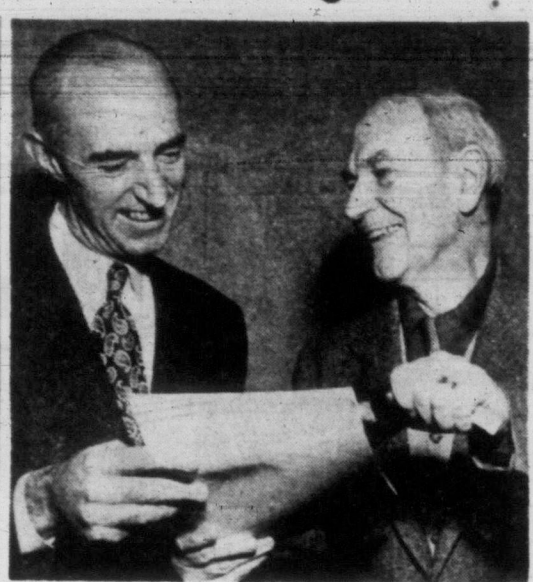

And that's why Farmer Weston is somewhat different as the run of average Vancouver Island farmers go.

Toronto-born, a West Coast by adoption, farmer by preference, the ex-newspaper man, ex-sailor, playwright, novelist, publicity man and screenwriter admits, Tuesday, that he harvests his typewriter better than he does his 60-odd acres of Sooke land.

Whether this is mere modesty on the part of the soft talking, pipe-puffing author no doubt will never be proven as it is dubious if many citizens will ever get out to his farm. But certainly there will be hundreds who will be able to make up their minds as to his story-writing ability when they take in the Dominion's "Pony Soldier," Friday, starring Tyrone Power.

Originally running in the Saturday Evening Post as a two-part serial under the title "Mounted Patrol," "Pony Soldier" is the story of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, about whom the author is painstakingly familiar.

"Years ago," he recounted, "when I was writing for Paramount I had occasion to make thorough research into the detailed history of the Mounties. Even so, I must admit I waited for the criticisms to come flooding in after my Saturday Evening Post story as there are always those who are looking for technical flaws, especially those who are well-versed in the organization's background." He grinned under his greying moustache, "However, so far I've been lucky. Why even up

"Wonder if They've Changed It Much?"

Sooke "farmer" Garnett Weston (right), more renowned for his Hollywood scripting and novels than for farming, chats above with Martin Cave, manager of the Dominion Theatre, about the author's movie, "Pony Soldier," which opens Friday and stars Tyrone Power.

in Fort McLeod, where there are old-timers still left waiting to pounce on it, they sent me word that my detail was so correct they were wondering if I was an old-timer myself."

Here Farmer Weston looked a trifle worried: "I wonder what 20th Century Fox has done with it. I know they've changed it. But how much?" "Haven't you seen it yourself yet?" inquired Martin Cave, manager of the Dominion Theatre, who had accompanied Farmer Weston for his Times interview.

"No, not yet," replied the author who explained that his original story had been entitled "Pony Soldier," but the Saturday Evening Post had preferred "Mounted Patrol." He was pleased, he said, when the studio had adopted his original title.

Although born in Toronto, Garnett Weston ventured to the west coast in 1909, when he was 19. He worked for the old Vancouver World and the British Columbia Magazine. In 1912 he joined the staff of the then brand new Sun. One of his first major stories was the sinking of the Titanic. After that came the call to war and young Weston sailed away for four years with the Royal Navy Volunteer Reserve.

Upon his return Hollywood beckoned. Soon he was hard at work as publicity man. Some of those he worked with grew to fame and fortune, such as Pola Negri, Wally Beery and Richard Dix. Somewhere along the line he started writing novels. He would put in his full day at the studio then spend until one or two in the morning at his own work. This paid off. Eventually he had about a dozen novels to his credit and his shorts began appearing in the slick papered magazines of the nation.

Abbott Presents House With Bill For $4 Billions

Details Fail to Show
Early Election Sign

OTTAWA (BUP).—Finance Minister D. C. Abbott today handed Parliament a $4,749,000,000 spending program for the fiscal year starting next April, leaving little room for tax reductions.

The minister laid a 597-page blue book of estimated expenditures before the Commons which forecast little change in defense spending, some increases in public works, continued national health grants, engineering work on the Lawrence Seaway, continued foreign aid under the Colombo plan, and no change in radio licenses.

Altogether, federal spending in 1953-54 will amount to $4,749,892,235, an increase of $52,135,052 over the $4,697,737,184 Parliament authorized to be spent during the current fiscal year. The figures include contributions to the old age security fund which, for administration purposes, are kept separate in the government's books.

The defense program for 1953-54 will amount to $2,001,795,000, compared with $2,001,725,000 appropriated in 1952-53. The money appropriated for this year will not all be spent, however, and the defense department expects to spend its full 1953-54 appropriations. Defense spending in the new fiscal year, therefore, may actually be higher than in the current year, although the figures given to the Commons by Abbott are lower.

MERRIMAN POUTS

Tom Won't Diet Without Halkett

By R. E. PORTER

A hitch developed today in the new slimming diet series supposed to be written by Tom Merriman of this staff and start in the Times tonight.

Merriman, or temperamental, or both, Merriman churlishly announced he had no article for today and there wouldn't be any in future.

"Unless," he announced, "Photographer Bill Halkett is in this thing too."

Halkett, he explained, was what he called "his partner in misery" on the Josephine Lowman Tubby Hubby Diet and there was no reason he should get the role of teacher's pet and be excused this time.

"Halkett has put back all and more of the weight he lost on the Lowman diet and needs to diet more than I," Merriman muttered.

"Anyway misery loves company; a contest and a side bet make the thing more interesting, or at least a little less like some," he added.

The diet series will continue on this page Thursday. Merriman will go on the diet. Halkett too, or else.—Managing Editor.

Toronto Market Hits New High Again Today

Trading in low-priced mining shares on Toronto Stock Exchange hit another new high today as turnover of "penny shares" surpassed Tuesday's all-time high of 10,567,000 shares to hit a new peak of 12,264,000 shares.

The renewed burst of activity in the junior mining stocks racked up a total volume for the exchange of over 5,000,000 sales in the first two hours of trading.

The record volume at Toronto was sparked by the rush to buy among many hitherto little known mining issues.

The mining investment fever also spread to Montreal Stock Exchange where shares of mining prospects changed hands at a record rate and pushed the Montreal volume close to a new peak towards the close.

Sparked by enthusiastic reports of big new mineral finds in New Brunswick and fast-breaking news of development deals with larger firms, the Toronto mining share boom looked like a repeat performance of the hectic days when trading was practically all confined to the shares of junior mining prospects.

Victoria brokers were cautious about predicting continued strength for the record list of mining prospects at Toronto.

"Right now there are only a few holes in the ground to justify the investment enthusiasm," one broker said. "But on the other hand it may presage a great new era of mining development. We don't know. It's a gamble."

Six Aboard Private Craft Kemano Bound

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Central B.C. Airways Co. plane with six persons aboard is missing in rugged mountainous country 400 miles north of Vancouver.

The plane, on a 100-mile over-water flight from Butedale to Kemano, carried five passengers and pilot J. Siddle of Vancouver.

It was last heard from at 3 p.m. Tuesday, the RCAF reported here today.

Company planes, hampered by bad weather, made a search late Tuesday and early today without sighting a clue.

An RCAF Canso is heading north to join the search. It will be based at Port Hardy on the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

Ships joined the search today, making a wide sweep over fog-shrouded waters.

Company officials said there is a "very good" chance that the plane is sitting out bad weather in an isolated fjord. Once confined within high rock walls it might be unable to make radio contact with the outside.

"Our pilots frequently do sit down to avoid bad weather," said a spokesman.

Kemano is the site of the Aluminum Company of Canada's power project.

It was later learned that aboard the plane were Robert Watson, a union official; an other union official and four Kemano workmen.

Watson is vice-president of Local 170, Plumbers' and Pipefitters' Union. The other official is a high officer of the same union.

Top Reds Held Responsible For Kojie Riots

TOKYO (AP)—The United Nations Command, today charged the two top Communist armistice negotiators with "direct responsibility" for bloody prisoner-of-war riots on Kojie and Cheju Islands.

The UNC quoted captured Communist documents and Allied intelligence reports in directly blaming North Korean Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate to the suspended talks, and his deputy, Gen. Lee Sang Cho.

The Allies said the uprisings, which cost the lives of more than 200 Red prisoners, were part of the "Communist campaign on the second front of the Korean war."

BELIEVE IN YOURSELF

Get Into Tune With Infinity

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE, DD
This is a chapter of the best-selling book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," by Dr. N. V. Peale. Succinct chapters will be published in The Times daily.

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, with whom I often discussed the habits and characteristics of her famous husband, the world's greatest inventive wizard, told me that it was Mr. Edison's custom to come into the house from his laboratory after many hours of labor and lie down on his old couch. She said he would fall asleep as naturally as a child, in perfect relaxation, sinking into a deep and untroubled slumber. After three or four, or sometimes five hours, he would become instantly wide awake, completely refreshed and eager to return to his work.

Mrs. Edison, in answer to my request that she analyze her husband's ability to rest in a manner so natural and complete, said, "He was nature's man," by which she meant that he was completely in harmony with nature and with God. In him there were no obsessions, no disorganizations, no conflicts, no mental quirks, no emotional instability. He worked until he needed to sleep, then he slept soundly and arose and returned to his work. He lived for many years the most creative mind ever to appear on the American continent. He drew his energy from emotional self-mastery, the ability to relax completely. His amazingly harmonious relationship with the universe caused nature to reveal to him its inscrutable secrets.

Every great personality I have ever known, and I have known many, who has demonstrated the capacity for prodigious work, has been a person in tune with the Infinite. Every such person seems in harmony with nature and in contact with the Divine energy. They have not necessarily been pious people but invariably they have been extraordinarily well organized from an emotional and psychological point of view.

The longer I live the more I am convinced that neither age nor circumstance needs to deprive us of energy and vitality. We are at last awakening to the close relationship between religion and health. We are beginning to comprehend a basic truth hitherto neglected, that our physical condition is determined very largely by our emotional condition, and our emotional life is profoundly regulated by our thought life.

All through its pages, the Bible talks about vitality and force and life. The supreme over-all word of the Bible is, and life means vitality—to be filled with energy. Jesus stated the key expression, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10). This does not rule out pain or suffering or difficulty, but the clear implication is that, if a person practices the creative and re-creative principles of Christianity, he can live with power and energy.

The practice of the above-mentioned principles will serve to bring a person into the proper tempo of living. Our energies are destroyed because of the high tempo, the abnormal pace at which we go. The conservation of energy depends upon getting

Details Fail to Show Early Election Sign

OTTAWA (BUP).—Finance Minister D. C. Abbott today handed Parliament a $4,749,000,000 spending program for the fiscal year starting next April, leaving little room for tax reductions.

The minister laid a 597-page blue book of estimated expenditures before the Commons which forecast little change in defense spending, some increases in public works, continued national health grants, engineering work on the St. Lawrence Seaway, continued foreign aid under the Colombo plan, and no change in radio licenses.

Altogether, federal spending in 1953-54 will amount to $4,749,892,235, an increase of $52,135,052 over the $4,697,737,184 Parliament authorized to be spent during the current fiscal year. The figures included contributions to the old age security fund which, for administration purposes, are kept separate in the government's books.

The defense program for 1953-54 will amount to $2,000,795,000, compared with $2,001,725,000 appropriated in 1952-53. The money appropriated for this year will not all be spent, however, and the defense department expects to spend its full 1953-54 appropriations. Defense spending in the new fiscal year, therefore, may actually be higher than in the current year, although the figures given to the Commons by Abbott are lower.

WHERE IT GOES

Key points of interest in the new spending program, included:

1. General health grants, for which Parliament voted $27,500,000 last spring will be continued and increased to $30,000,000 in the new fiscal year, on the basis of rules and regulations to be set down by the cabinet before the end of March. In general, hospital grants will be down, but grants for hospital and other health services will be up.

2. Appropriations for surveys and engineering on the St. Lawrence Seaway were increased from $75,000 last year to $300,000 in the new year and more staff in the transport department—whose salaries are lumped with all other departmental employees—will be put to work on the seaway.

3. No change was forecast for the spending program in one-day mail deliveries in urban residential areas, but increases were made for improvement of delivery services in suburban areas. Restoration of two-day deliveries in all urban areas could be decided upon later by the cabinet.

No change was forecast in radio license fees. The transport department's appropriations again listed over $760,000 for the issuance of the annual $2.50 license fees for private receiving sets.

5. The government earmarked another $25,000,000 contribution to the Colombo plan of assistance to South and Southeast Asia.

6. Increases of over $6,250,000 were listed by "acquisition, construction and improvement of public buildings" and maintenance of existing buildings, bringing the total for the new year to $75,441,765.

The increases were spread generally across Canada with the exception of Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Ontario and Quebec.

EARLY VOTE HIT

All in all the new spending program had little to encourage speculation in parliamentary circles of an early general election. The increase in public works spending—an item which is generally regarded as a sure tip-off to election plans—was mainly attributed to higher costs of construction, higher rents and the transfer of some defense building projects from the defense production department to the public works department.

A $45,000,000 increase was listed for the health and welfare department, largely because of an increase of $16,702,000 in family allowance payments.

The provincial government will abide by the wishes of the majority of British Columbians and continue summer-long daylight saving, a government source said today.

Rails, Unions Agree To Last-Ditch Talks

MONTREAL (CP)—Key railway and union executives went into conference at 3:02 p.m. EST. today to take another crack at breaking the wage-dispute deadlock which is threatening Canada with a country-wide rail strike.

They met at the personal request of Labor Minister Gregg.

who telephoned both parties from Ottawa this morning to ask them to try again to solve their differences and head off the strike, set for 6 a.m. local time next Monday.

Mr. Gregg said he had asked for the new negotiations in separate telephone conversations with A. J. Kelly, Canadian chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, both at Montreal. W. A. Mather, president of Canadian Pacific Railway, was with Mr. Gordon at the time.

The minister said he told them he was anxious that "all facilities possible be explored under free negotiations" before any government action might be taken.

He asked them to "do all they can to arrange another discussion that might be immediately productive of results."

Mr. St. Laurent told reporters that this move was taken after cabinet received overnight telegrams from the disputants explaining the latest collapse of talks in Montreal Tuesday night.

It was for lack of the information in these wires that cabinet Tuesday night adjourned its first emergency session until this morning.

Mr. Gregg sat with the other ministers this morning.

At the end of the meeting, Mr. St. Laurent said he expected to make a statement on the rail issue in the Commons when it opens at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Meanwhile, the regular weekly caucus called for this morning stood adjourned indefinitely.

Today's first cabinet meeting was held in the Prime Minister's centre block office, close by the House of Commons chamber, instead of the regular Privy Council chamber in the east block.

Preparations being made across Canada for railway tie-up Feb. 2 as negotiations between railways and union break down in Montreal.

Railway Association of Canada issues embargo on all perishable goods, livestock and poultry, which cannot reach destination before strike deadline.

Letter service will continue throughout Canada in the event of a rail strike.

Newspapers or parcels, other than medical supplies, will not be accepted for handling through the mail service.

Airlines said will give "best service possible" with extra flight plans now being readied.

Quebec Automotive Transport Association readying 10,000 trucks to meet crisis.

Bus lines fear they will be unable to handle extra traffic of commuters and suggest companies arrange use of company vehicles for "shuttle system" for employees.

Maple Automotive Transportation Association holds preliminary discussions to form pool of trucks to handle essential supplies.
